CREATING AN ENTREPRENEURIAL ECOSYSTEM: I CREATE'S NEW ADD-ON MACRO LEVEL PROGRAM

How do we make our entrepreneurs competitive globally? Whereas infrastructure strengthening and regulatory reforms play important roles in making us competitive, having a competitive mindset is found to be of equally important.

Competitiveness Mindset Study: A major first of its kind, nationwide study, under the aegis of IIT GN, sought to identify factors that can boost India's GDP and job creation by looking at the attributes that affect Indians' competitiveness mindset. This Study draws attention to an urgent and important matter- a country's ability to compete in the global market and its entrepreneurial ecosystem.

What's key to competitive mindset and where does India stand:

The study covering 2700+ complete responses from cross-section of CEOs, high level government officers, directors and professors of higher educational institutes, media, Non-Resident Indian (NRIs) and the civil society revealed the following five attributes as the most important for competitiveness (shown in blue) and where India stands (shown in maroon):

The purpose of the study is to offer to the policy makers in government, business and academia, and practitioners committed to improving entrepreneur creation, employability of youth, to consider steps that can be taken to address systemic improvements to the issues identified in the study to eventually make some real and changes for the better, to create jobs and inclusive prosperity.

Copies of the report have been sent to India's policy makers at the highest level at the national and the state level and a follow up study is underway to identify easy to implement steps to address the issues identified in the study.
